Drive Motor Replacement

Please note: Before attempting to remove the MC-2000 drive motor, ensure that the chair is unplugged from the power source to prevent any electrical accidents.

1. Remove the back cover of the chair

- Locate the screws or fasteners that secure the back cover of the chair.
- Using an appropriate screwdriver or tool, carefully remove these screws or fasteners to detach the back cover.
- Set aside the back cover in a safe place where it won't get damaged.

2. Secure the massage head

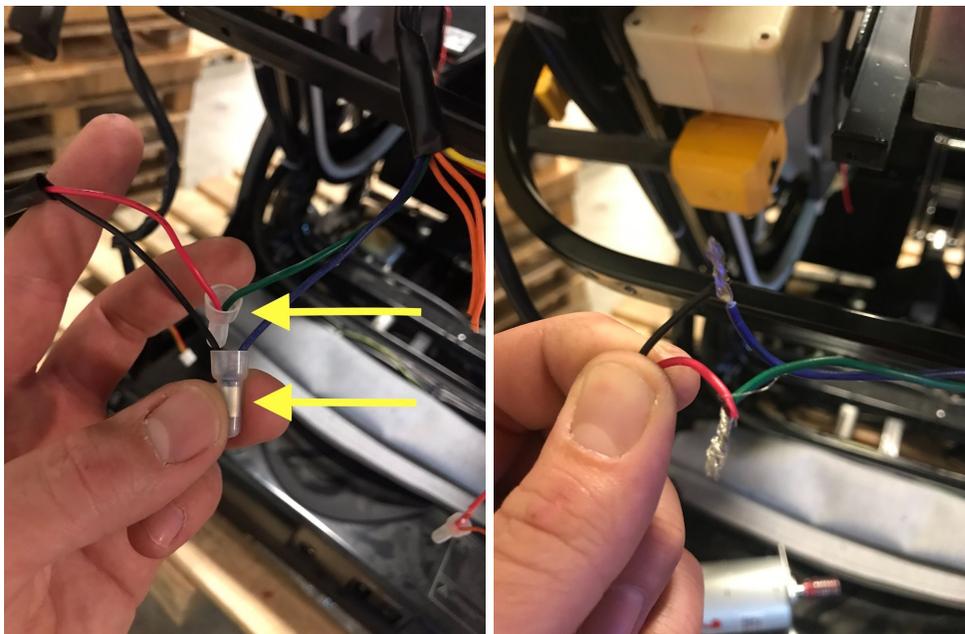

- To prevent the massage head from dropping down unexpectedly, place a clamp underneath it or ask someone to hold it securely.
- Make sure the massage head is adequately supported before proceeding to the next step.

3. Remove the MC-2000 drive motor

- Identify the screws that are circled in red and holding the motor in place.
- Carefully unscrew and remove these screws using the appropriate screwdriver.
- Gently detach the MC-2000 drive motor from its current position, ensuring not to damage any other components in the process.

4. Manage the wiring

- Take note of the color wiring for future reference before proceeding.
- There are two options to handle the wiring:
 - a) Unwind the wires: Slowly unwind the wires and remove any wire connectors (marrettes) that may be present.
 - b) Cut the wires: If it's necessary to cut the wires, use wire strippers to strip the wire ends after cutting. Make sure to leave enough length for reconnection later.
